CALIFORNIANS ON THEIR NATIVE SOIL.

Marched to Ferry Depot, Where Breakfast Is Served and Gov. Gage and Mayor Phelan Welcome Them.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—The California Volunteers and Battery A and D of the California Heavy Artillery were breakfasted today in the Union Ferry Depot. Previous to marching from the transport Sherman, which had been anchored in the early morning, the soldiers were lined up for inspection. The order to march was given shortly before 9 o'clock, and as the men filed from the Government Wharf the same noisy demonstration which has greeted their every move since their arrival, was resumed. Mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters, and friends lined both sides of East street, twenty deep. The crowds could not be suppressed, and it was not long before the people were mingling with the soldiers. Many touching scenes followed the breaking of the ranks, which, though but temporary, relieved many an anxious heart. The dining hall presented a beautiful sight. Twenty long tables, covered with snowy white linen, with each place set, met the eye. At every place a small buttonhole bouquet had been placed beside an American flag. The napkins were ornamented with small flags and all along the line of tables, at frequent intervals, vases filled with freshly cut flowers added to the picturesque appearance of the corridor.

As the tramp of the soldiers was heard ascending the stairs to the dining room scores of young ladies and mothers who had volunteered to serve the boys made a rush for the gate through which they would pass. The usual scene of kissing, hugging, and tears of happiness followed, but order was soon restored, and the soldiers were escorted to the tables which had been designated for the different companies. The breakfast was an elaborate one, and was heartily enjoyed by the boys, who were hungry for a real American meal.

Governor Gage and Mayor Phelan made addresses of welcome.

TRENDENOUS EXCITEMENT.

Never in history has San Francisco been so widely excited as today. The news that the California soldiers would commence the march to the Presidio as soon as breakfast served them in the ferry building was over attracted practically all of San Francisco to the line of march. Every bit of space from which a view of the parade could be had was occupied. Lamp posts, telegraph and electric light poles, in fact, anything that offered a foothold bore its burden of enthusiasts.

From the ferry building the soldiers marched back to the transport to secure their rifles and to make ready for the long tramp to the Presidio reservation. At the Government dock General Sherman had stationed the regulars, and General Robinson had stationed the National Guard conveniently.

MARCH TO THE PRESIDIO.

As soon as everything was in readiness for the Californians to march General Sherman gave the signal, and the parade was started. The parade was headed by the regulars under command of General Hunter, and as soon as the procession started the cheering and noise commenced. The regulars presented a fine appearance, as did the National Guardsmen, who followed them. They were heartily cheered, but the cheering given them was but of infrequent proportions to that which greeted the Californians, in front of whom rode Governor Gage and staff.

AFFECTING SCENES.

The people closed in upon them and an amount of persuasion could keep them back. The ranks of the Californians were broken continually. Mothers and sisters greeted sons and brothers; sweethearts wept over their heroes, and the boys could not march a dozen feet without being halted. Again and again order was restored, but only temporarily. Flowers and wreaths were showered upon them, and flags were placed in the barrels of their rifles. The boys presented a fine appearance, their generally healthy appearance bringing forth much favorable comment.

A HALT AT THE PALACE.

On Market street the crowds were tremendous. Every one seemed to be laughing or in tears. Friends and mothers marched along with the soldiers and added to the general disorder. It was a thrilling sight. In front of the Palace Hotel an unusually large number of people had gathered, and here the boys were halted for fifteen minutes, receiving the congratulations of friends. The hotel windows were thronged with spectators, and flags waving from the windows made a beautiful sight. At the junction of Third, Kearney and Market streets the same scenes were repeated, and, if possible, the demonstration was more frantic and hysterical. Here a large squad of police finally succeeded in making a space for the boys to march through, but it was not for long.

ON VAN NESS AVENUE.

The same spectacle was presented all along the line of march until Van Ness avenue was reached and here for the first time the boys were given comfortable marching room for quite a distance until the reviewing stand was reached. Here the crowds again became demonstrative and again the soldiers were halted.

Following the Californians came the regular volunteers of Colorado and the Legion of the Cross cadets and the civic societies. The Colorado boys were heartily cheered all along the line and were decorated with flags and flowers.

BOYS GIVEN A FURLOUGH.

The struggle to the Presidio continued, and when this place was finally reached it was found impossible to restore order for a long time. Eventually the different companies were gathered together and assigned to their camping places, and things were more orderly. Later in the afternoon the boys were given a furlough of twenty-four hours, and tonight they will spend with their families and friends.

M'KINLEY AT LONG BRANCH.

A Guest at the Home of Vice-President Hobart.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 25.—President and Mrs. McKinley, Vice President and Mrs. Hobart, General A. Hobart, Jr., Attorney General Griggs, Dr. and Mrs. Hixey, Private Secretary Cortelyou and Executive Clerk Barnes arrived this morning at 7:45 o'clock from Plattsburg on a special train of four palace cars. As the train drew into the station the presidential salute was fired by Wilson Battery, N. G. N. Y., and a detachment of Troop C of Brooklyn presented arms. The President was greeted with enthusiasm as he emerged from the car and assisted Mrs. McKinley to alight. President and Mrs. McKinley looked in excellent health, and bowed their acknowledgments repeatedly to the great crowd as they were escorted to their carriage by the reception committee and driven to Vice President Hobart's cottage, Normanhurst, at Norwood Park.

At Norwood a great crowd gathered, which received the President and Mrs. McKinley with great enthusiasm. The President breakfasted at Norwood, and will remain there until 3:30 p. m., when he will review the military tournament, at the horse show grounds.

At 10 o'clock the Reception Committee and officers of the militia drove to Normanhurst and formally welcomed the President.

A public reception was also to have been tendered the President tonight, but the President declined. Rev. Price, dean of the Ocean Grove Summer School of Theology, called on the President and extended the formal invitation from the citizens and trustees of Ocean Grove. The President said he would call at Ocean Grove at 2 o'clock. The President, accompanied by Mrs. McKinley and Mrs. Hobart, subsequently drove to the pier to witness the arrival of the Scorpion. As the carriage reached the pier the trim little gunboat dropped anchor and fired the President's salute. The President took a short drive along Ocean avenue and returned later to Normanhurst for luncheon.

Everywhere the President was greeted with cheers, handclapping and waving of handkerchiefs.

GREAT RECEPTION TO THE FIGHTERS.

Thrilling Scenes Along Market Street as the Brave Californians Made Their Way to Camp at Presidio.

Fourteen months ago when San Francisco bade good-bye to her boys as represented in the First California Regiment, U. S. V., as the command disappeared in the horizon on its way to take part in the Spanish war, her charge was in effect, what of the Spartan mother to her son, "Return either with your shield or on your back."

From the distant, and practically unknown land to which the members of the regiment felt that duty called them, the organization has returned, and today, San Francisco, like a mother, indeed, clasped its members to her breast. They had returned not upon their shields but with them on and on those shields, so to speak, the simple words, "Malate, Holo, Guam, Pao and Manila," told stories which only volunteers could detail.

THE RECEPTION.

To have witnessed the warmth of the reception this morning was to witness that which seldom takes place more than once in a lifetime.

Ask the veteran of the Mexican War how he was received when he came back from the Chapultepec, Alamo del Rey, Cerro Gordo and from the proud capital of the nation's foe at that period.

Ask the gray haired, decrepit veteran who took part in that never-to-be forgotten review of the victorious army of the Potomac more than a generation ago, and no victors could have had, up to that time a more heartfelt welcome—ask him how the enthusiasm of the capital compared with that of the metropolis of California today.

The veteran of the war with Mexico will tell you that he was not fêted as a hero. The veteran of the Rebellion will tell you that he was honored even to veneration, but that the idealization of today's meeting almost blotted out of memory the proudest moment of his life. And so indeed it was. It was not simply veneration that was shown the boys today. They were made to believe that there was a feeling for them which cannot be aroused by consanguinity, which cannot be expressed by the simple term "Love," and which is not included in the word "Patriotism." Today's demonstration partook of the devotion of kinship, the intensity of affection, and proof of the deep-seated love of country.

THE PARADE.

In the line of march were the Governor with staff, gorgeous in their uniforms; regulars, who had not yet heard a hostile shot; Naval Reserves, everyone of whom gave evidence of having a heart of oak; young men, who have taken the pledge of total abstinence, and other young men who have not yet left school.

But it was not the day for any of these. It was simply the day for California's boys, with a warm feeling for the stalwarts from Colorado.

When the Californians came in view voiceless crowds became thunderous in cheers and yells, and the chorus was taken up by sirens and steam whistles until the din was almost unbearable.

The men were attired in their khaki uniforms. Their hats were encircled with wreaths of Victory. Boutonnieres like medals decorated their breasts. The horses were caparisoned with flowers. Bouquets protruded from the muzzles of their rifles. Floral banners preceded each company. Flowers paved the streets upon which they trod. In fact, the command was bombarded with flowers. Flowers like glad hearts were everywhere. Friends along the line recognized friends in the ranks, and then came a cheery salutation. Parents recognized their sons, and then there was a flood of tears. Sweethearts at length caught the glance of one another, and officers and men were blind to the temporary greeting of loving hearts. Police efforts in many cases to keep back the throng were futile. The crowd rushed, and boys formed a rear guard to every company, and sweethearts and wives marched with the men from whom they had been so long separated.

This was not a scene in one block nor in a dozen, but all along the line, and especially so at the reviewing stand on Van Ness avenue, where the enthusiasm was indescribable.

A SAD SCENE.

But amid all this rejoicing, one could not fail to notice boys with hollow cheeks, sunken and lack-lustre eyes, emaciated forms, and, in the carriages and ambulances, boys who had come from the hospital and who were unable to move for themselves. For these there was little of pleasure in the greeting. And yet, there was many a sight in the throng who moved as if he were treading on thorns and who will not again fear to brave his breast to the foe when called to maintain the laws of the country at home or to uphold the country's dignity abroad.

This marching host of the morning is now on leave of absence for twenty-four hours. They are the social lions of the hour. Friends are inducing them to be proud of the past, to enjoy the present with the certainty that the future can take care of itself.

GOVERNOR GAGE WELL RECEIVED.

Governor Gage was always a central figure of the procession. He was attired in a civilian suit and rode in a barouche with Adjutant General Seaman seated on his left. The Adjutant was attired in the military uniform of his rank, and attracted no small amount of attention.

Governor Gage, however, was cheered to the echo all along the line. The sun was bright and warm, and despite this fact His Excellency rode with an uncovered head throughout the march, bowing and returning the salutes of the thousands who recognized in him the representative of the State of California, whose honor and name the boys of the First had so gallantly upheld abroad.

HARD CHARGES AGAINST A SON.

Public Administrator Claims Boy Blackmailed His Mother.

Public Administrator B. C. Hawes has filed a sensational suit against Adolph H. Bauerle to recover valuable real estate alleged to have been obtained by extortion from the defendant's mother, Mrs. Louise H. Bauerle, prior to her death.

Mrs. Bauerle died in this city on the ninth of this month leaving an estate valued at about $15,000. She left a will directing that her estate be divided among her three children: Adolph H. Bauerle, Mrs. Louise Fromme and Mrs. Anita Silva, after some minor bequests had been made.

After the death of the mother, it was found that the son had a deed to most of the real estate. He also refused to file the will for probate until the Public Administrator applied for letters of administration on the estate.

In his complaint Mr. Hawes charges that the son forced his mother to sign the property over to him under threats that he would expose her criminal relations with one Henry Meyer in 1894.

Under these threats, it is alleged, Mrs. Bauerle went into hysterics and signed the deeds. This was followed by her illness and death.

LIVERMORE, Aug. 25.—The Chinaman arrested on Monday night by Town Marshal Harvey for having unstamped cigars in his possession was released from the town cooler yesterday, and his cigar turned to him. The revenue officers said they would send a deputy to Livermore to take charge of the Celestial, but at the last moment, probably owing to press of other business, telephoned to release him.

PHONICS AT SHELL MOUND PARK.
Sunday, August 22nd—Tyronne, Fernanagh and Lorraine Social Club, to 11 P. M.
FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1909.
Talk about home breeding! It couldn't have been a circumstance to the way we have turned loose.

Keep a close watch on your children while mingling with the crowds across the bay. This is the harvest season for pickpockets.
It is at times like these that the people are apt to appreciate the newspapers. They are the only guides as to what is going on and where to go to.

The Californians are evidently amazed at the magnitude of their losses. They naturally expected a good warm reception, but they did not anticipate finding the whole country peacefully crazy with excitement.

Secretary of the Treasury Gage gravely announces that the war taxes will not be increased. That is a sort of a knock-out blow of saying that there are no probabilities of their being reduced for a long time to come.

Backley is complaining about the burglars and sneak thieves who have been playing these late. The only satisfaction they can get out of it is that the counts given them the result of possessing articles worth going after.

All the "country cousins" are on hand today. San Francisco has never in her history had such a huge visitation from the interior as the present one, and, to her credit, she is doing her best to entertain them properly.

Millionaire Boardman may be willing to admit that Gladstone was a grand old man, but his opinion of Mrs. Gladstone is, doubtless, entirely different. His experiences while on the deposition rack show that his memory is extremely poor, which is probably the reason why he forgot to recall Mrs. Gladstone's famous advice, "Beware of children."

San Francisco Bay has never presented a more charming spectacle than when the Sherman and the escort fleet entered the harbor yesterday afternoon. The yachts and excursion boats were a mass of glowing color and the success of the arrangements is a big feather in the cap of Commodore John D. Sprockels, who managed the water pageant.

WORK FOR THE SOLDIERS.
There is one branch of the work undertaken by the celebration committee that means far more to some of the "California" soldier boys than the pageants and entertainments that are being spread before them. It is the establishment of a sub-committee that will endeavor to secure employment for all the soldiers who have no positions to which to turn as soon as they are mustered out of their San's service.

While a large number of the former employers of the volunteers have announced their intention to re-employ them in their former positions, it is known that there are some who have no intention of doing so, and also that there is a certain percentage of the soldiers who were not actually at work immediately prior to enlistment and, who, in consequence, are resourceless now.

It should not be a difficult task to obtain work for all who need it, as so much on account of the fact that the labor market is somewhat depressed at the present time as that there will be plenty of patriotic citizens who will be glad to give the preference to the brave fellows who have been fighting their battles for them in far-away climes. The sub-committee will, therefore, be merely an agency, and will unquestionably not have the men on its hands long, but everyone will be pleased to learn that such a provision has been made, for it would be rather a hollow welcome to turn the soldiers adrift upon the world as soon as the era of fireworks and banquets is ended.

ERIAN THE BOURBON.
Signs that the Democratic party is hopelessly riven multiply daily. The recent interview with Bryan, in which he declares that the party is bound to stand by the sixteen to one plank in its platform and make that a leading issue in the next campaign, is a death blow to the hopes of those conservative Democrats, such as ex-Governor Hales of Iowa, who hoped that the merciless logic of events had taught the radical wing of the party that the sixteen to one cause is dead beyond resurrection. Bryan's utterance and the program of his blind adherents mean the speedy disintegration of a party already demoralized by the incongruous mixture of elements essentially antagonistic.

the wild and whirling varieties of Populism, the fanaticism of the Silver Republicans, who seem to be doing their best to ruin the Democratic party because they were not permitted to rule the Republican organization, and the economic heresies of the old-line Democrats.
The union of these three factions was an unnatural one from the beginning. The Populists, with their flat money theories, had little confidence in the evils which the Silver Republicans looked with contempt upon the Populist theories, while the Democrats were suspicious of both their allies. A common lust for the offices was all that held them together. The crushing defeat they sustained in the last campaign has convinced the Populists that they have nothing to gain by fusion, and they have cut loose from the alliance. This leaves the Democrats and the Silver Republicans to struggle for control of the party machinery, and Bryan's recent declaration that the party must go into the next campaign peaking the battle cry of sixteen to one shows that the Silver Republican fall is wagging the Democratic dog.
If there ever was a hopelessly discredited cause, it is the free coinage issue, and there is something almost pathetic in the fact that the party which has been so completely defeated, is now rapidly drifting into the Sargasso Sea of oblivion.

THE ROUNDER.
I am pleased to see that our merchants are so very patriotic. Tomorrow afternoon will practically be a holiday in Oakland, as all the principal stores will close for at least a portion of the afternoon.
I notice that the members of the City Council are not particularly anxious to get mixed up in the controversy between Mayor Snow and Street Superintendent Miller. The opinion seems to prevail that it is better to allow the officials to fight it out on their own lines.
The Centerville Jail must be a sort of a curiosity. A prisoner was confined in the institution, and when it came time for his trial the Constable went to the jail to get his man and produce him in court. He found, however, that the prisoner had taken to his heels and was now enjoying a vacation.
I am pleased to hear that Miss Catherine B. Felton will be elected Superintendent of the Associated Charities next Monday. Miss Felton is a remarkably bright young woman. She is a graduate of the State University, and has a wide circle of friends in Alameda county. Miss Felton belongs to a noted family. I am told that she has made a special study of charity work. Mrs. Helen Kelly, who resigned, will step out of office on September 1st. I am told that she would like to have retained the position.

ANARCHY IN PHILIPPINES.
Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LONDON, Aug. 25.—The La Tuna correspondent of the Reuters Telegraph Company cables that reliable news received there direct from Manila says that an insupportable state of anarchy prevails. Anarchists, according to those who occupy positions of influence there, are the cause of all the trouble they occupy a small radius. The rest of the country, it is added, is in the hands of the Filipinos.

WILL NOT SELL THE HOMESTEAK.
Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—Mrs. Hearst, when seen in regard to a special dispatch from Deadwood, South Dakota, stating that it was her intention to sell her interest in the famous Homestead mine, denied most positively that there was a word of truth in the statement. "I have never had the slightest intention of selling my interest in the Homestead," she said. "It is a valuable property, and I have no desire to dispose of it. That is one piece of property that I positively would not dispose of, and besides it was quoted at one-half its actual value."

ARMY AND NAVY.
Service in the American navy is both profitable and certain to a considerable extent. If the following story may be accepted as an example, Henry W. Albert, who was born just 50 years ago, has been retired from the navy with the pay of $83 a month. He enlisted as a landsman in 1858 and has served without interruption, holding almost every position an enlisted man can obtain, rising at last to chief master-at-arms. He has served in nearly every port of the habitable globe and has been on over a dozen ships.
